Western Undergraduate Exchange (WUE)
The Western Undergraduate Exchange (WUE) program is administered by the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE), a nonprofit regional organization established by a regional interstate compact. The fifteen member states of WICHE work together to expand educational access for all residents of the participating states. Tuition for WUE students is generally each institution's regular in-state tuition plus 50% of that amount, a considerable savings over non-resident rates. For more information you can download the WUE bulletin from the WICHE Web site located at http://www.wiche.edu/, or contact us toll free at (800) 441-2962.

Western Regional Graduate Program (WRGP)
Over one hundred master's and doctoral programs in 15 states are available through the Western Regional Graduate (WRG) program. They are selected on the basis of quality and limited availability. Sponsored by WICHE, WRGP institutions waive the non-resident tuition differential for students who are granted admission to these programs. For more information you can download the WRGP bulletin from the WICHE Web site, or contact us toll free at (800) 441-2962.
